

Fielding School of Public Health

Center for the Study of Racism, Social Justice & Health

Programmer/Analyst (Graduate Student Researcher)

The Center for the Study of Racism, Social Justice & Health seeks a graduate student researcher (GSR) Programmer/Analyst to begin immediately. This position calls for expertise in programming, statistical modeling and prediction in big data research. The primary responsibilities include programming the system to compute and predict associations to be visualized on a data dashboard. Specific responsibilities and qualifications are outlined below.

RESPONSIBILITIES

Key responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

- Conduct the programming needed to generate associations and some statistics via a data dashboard
- Work with the dashboard development team to troubleshoot any issues that arise in achieving the project aims
- Contribute to manuscripts, presentations and draft relevant sections of the data documentation
- Conduct and summarize literature reviews
- Experience with UX Design
- Software Quality Assurance (SQA) experience

QUALIFICATIONS

Eligibility

To be eligible, candidates must:

- Have at least a master's degree or equivalent in a relevant field (e.g., information science)
- Have at least two years of relevant experience
- Meet all department and UCLA eligibility for hire during the COVID-19 pandemic
- Be available to start immediately

The ideal candidate will also:

- Communicate effectively with diverse members of an interdisciplinary team
- Be a responsible and reliable employee
- Be comfortable working independently and seeking guidance or assistance as needed
- Have good organizational skills

To apply, send the following items in a single email to RacismHealthAdmin@ph.ucla.edu. The review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Pay will be commensurate with experience.

1. A letter of application explaining how you meet the criteria listed in this announcement
2. An updated curriculum vita or resume
3. The names and contact information for two references who can speak to your qualifications
4. Links to sample work previously completed (if available)

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status or other protected categories covered by the UC Nondiscrimination and Affirmative Action Policy.